Save your sanity and money - five tips for choosing your computer support provider

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Zillmere, Thursday 4 July 2013

Choosing a computer support provider for your business or home shouldn't be difficult, but for many, it takes a lot more effort than it should.

Chris Jeffery, Proprietor/Chief Guru of CyberGuru will be presenting on the topic, "Five tips for choosing your computer support provider that will save you frustration and wasted money" at several upcoming meetups (professional networking meetings) being held by the Redcliffe Business Networking Group.

Last year, Chris was awarded the Young IT Professional of Year by the Australian Computer Society Queensland. This month he celebrates sixteen years owning and operating the computer solutions business, and also celebrating past six months on a full-time basis.

CyberGuru, based in Brisbane's northern suburb of Zillmere, provides award-winning, professional and affordable computer solutions to small businesses, not-for-profit organizations and individuals.

The Redcliffe Business Networking Group meetups are free to attend with a gold coin donation to cover fees. You then simply pay for the coffee/food you order from the menu.

The Redcliffe Business Networking Group is being held at The Coffee Club, 171 Redcliffe Parade, Redcliffe on the following days:

- Redcliffe Mid-morning Networking Coffee Brunch: Wednesday 10 July, 2013 at 9:00am-12:00pm
- Redcliffe Networking Breakfast: Wednesday, 17 July, 2013 at 7:00am-10:00am

Anyone is welcome to come along, ask questions of Chris and network with the other participants.
